

SANDWICHES.

The scientific study of Nature tends not only to correct and ennoble the intellectual conceptions of man, but it serves also to ameliorate his physical condition.

"The birds make fine feathers," and Wilder's Sarsaparilla and Potash make the blood pure and healthy.

There are moments when the pale and modest star, kindled by God in simple hearts, which men call conscience, illumines our path with true light than the flaming comet of genius on its magnificent course.

All diseases resulting from self-abuse as nervous debility, mental anxiety, depression of spirits, and functional derangements of the nervous system, cured by German Invigorator. See advertisement. For sale by Thomas & Kimbley.

The press should not be the advocate of men but of merit and principle. A good journal is the cultivator of the public and not a tool for the schemer.

Go West but don't go without a bottle of Wilder's Chill Tonic, guaranteed cure for chills and fever.

Fatal—"You just take a bottle of my medicine," said a quack doctor to a consumptive, "and you'll never cough again." "Is it so fatal as that?" gasped the consumptive.

Wherever consumption prevails there Wilder's Wild Cherry is needed. It never fails to cure.

The blessing of a house is goodness. The honor of a house is hospitality. The ornament of a house is cleanliness. The happiness of a house is contentment.

A young man is made better by a sister's love and Fever and Ague are cured by Wilder's Chill Tonic—also malaria and periodical disorders.

Our brains are seventy-year clocks. The angel of life winds them up once for all, then closes the case and gives the key into the hand of the angel of the resurrection.

No matter how faded the constitution may be from disease or excess, the Great German Invigorator restores it permanently. See advertisement. For sale by Thomas & Kimbley.

It is the purpose that makes strong the voice.—Shakespeare.

All kinds of Blood and Skin Diseases cured by Wilder's Sarsaparilla and Potash.

Let's take the instant by the forward top.—Shakespeare.

Does death end all? Well, no; but Wilder's Stomach Bitters ends all Indigestion, Constipation and Bilelessness.

Poor wretches that depend on greatness, favour, dream, wake and find nothing.—Shakespeare.

Kill worms in children with Wilder's Mother's Worm Syrup.

When is a gate not a gate? When it's a jar.

Don't shake with chills or burn with fever. Wilder's Chill Tonic is the sure cure.

Torn to pieces with a cough? Wilder's Wild Cherry Tonic will mend you up as good as new.

Women who have not fine teeth only laugh with their eyes.

Mr. C. S. Mouch, Louisville, Ky., says: "My wife was severely troubled with headaches. Brown's Iron Bitters gave her relief."

Don't give up in despair, girl's Naomi didn't marry until she was 59 years old. Then she was sorry she hadn't waited a century or two longer.

A gentleman from Orwell, Pa., called my attention to Ely's Cream Balm as a remedy for Catarrh, Hay Fever, etc. He was so earnest in asserting it to be a positive cure (himself having been cured by it) that I purchased a stock. The Balm has already effected cures.—B. F. Hayett, M. D. Bardonia, N. J.

"Desire is a tree in bloom, hope is a tree in fruit, and grief is a tree in leaf."

Women with pale colorless faces, who feel weak and discouraged, will receive both mental and bodily vigor by using Carter's Iron Pills, which are made for the blood, nerves and complexion.

Tact is one of the first mental virtues, and the absence of this qualification is frequently fatal to the best of talents.

There is many a slip 'twix the cup and the lip, and he who takes too freely, the cup is not likely to touch the lip if it belongs to a sensible girl.—State Journal.

Many persons who seemingly have consumption have perfectly sound lungs, and their distress originates altogether from disordered kidneys and liver. Now there are thousands of remedies that will relieve kidney and liver diseases, but there is only one that can be depended upon for effecting a permanent cure, and that is Brown's Iron Bitters. Its efficacy has been satisfactorily proven in thousands of instances after all other remedies failed.

"Hope" what a beautiful word, what an endless meaning, what happiness it gives to the heart in which it lives. A word that expresses the very absence of the thing we desire, and yet, gives more contentment and happiness to the soul than the actual possession of all the wealth of India. Oh, how wreathed is the man in whose bosom hope no longer dwells.

The Ottumwa (Iowa) Democrat suggests the following tariff plank for the Democratic platform in 1884: "We believe that a tariff for revenue limited to the necessities of the government economically administered, and so adjusted in its application as to prevent unequal burdens, encourage productive industries, and afford just compensation to labor, but not to build up monopolies, would be for the best interest of the whole people." It then says: "Now it appears to us that this is very comprehensible and includes all that any Democrat could demand. It is a revenue tariff. It is limited to the necessities of the government under an economical administration; adjusted in its application so as to make the public burdens equal; with a view to encourage productive industry, but not to build up monopolies. With a tariff platform of this kind the Democrats can place Iowa in the Democratic column of the States. With a platform of this kind the whole Northwest will rally to aid the Democratic party to overthrow the present reign of monopoly."

This levying of a tariff of any grade affords a certain amount of protection of necessity, but there is a point at which it may cease to produce the largest possible revenue. Up to that it is a revenue tariff; but beyond that point it becomes distinctly a protective tariff. The present tariff, in most of its rates, is far above that point. The Democrats propose to lower the schedule rates to the revenue basis. Is that a "step toward free trade"? Certainly. "Is it free trade"? No. Suppose a tariff at an average rate of ten per centum produces the greatest amount of revenue. Then to raise it to twenty per cent, average is to make it a protective tariff; to put it back at ten per cent, would make it a revenue tariff, but not for "revenue only," for it would afford incidental protection. That's the reason a tariff is a curse in itself.—Louisville Democrat.

"Infant industries" and giant monopolies must not be confounded in discussing the tariff question. On one side help may be needed, but on the other the difficulty is found in the exuberance of its strength. Infant industries cannot feed and fatten a swarm of legislative lobbyists, but monopoly can make a grand army of these corruptionists to influence legislation in its interests. Beware of monopoly.—Bellevue (Ill.) Democrat.

Marshall county is the banner temperance county of Kentucky. There is not a licensed liquor shop in the State, the general local opinion of the State having been voted into operation by every school district in the county. In years past Marshall was noted for her drunken carousals and frequent killings, but now its jail stands open half the time, and there has not been a murder or serious difficulty in the county since the option law was enforced.—Clinton Democrat.

THERE is unusual unanimity of opinion among newspapers of all parties that Speaker Carlisle's committee on ways and means presages a radical reduction of the tariff and as close an approach to free trade as is possible with revenue necessities. Commercial Gazette.

Well, that suits us exactly. We do not feel the least alarm over the promise of a strictly revenue tariff measure. That will still furnish all the protection "infant" manufacturing industries really need or can stand, and attain a healthy growth.—Louisville Democrat.

The same here, Mr. Munnell.

ANOTHER thing the Legislature may very well afford to devote some of its time and attention to is a law regulating judicial sales to be advertised in the newspapers in advance. A written notice stuck up at three or four places is not advertising at all, and instances have occurred of the setting aside sales made upon such notices, because of the scarcity of bidders and the inadequacy of prices. This costs are increased, only to be followed by a repetition of the same and notice notices, and to afford a hint to the buyers that they can secure a confirmation by advancing their bids a few dollars, and the unfortunate debtor sees his property swept away for a mere song, and the decree or judgment under which it was sold, still remaining unsatisfied, and to be a clog upon his energies perhaps as long as he lives. The interest of those unfortunate whose property is thus brought under the hammer, demands the enactment of such a law as we have suggested, and we dare assert that Kentucky is the only State in the Union that is without such an one.—Henderson Reporter.

Better than $10,000.

"I spent over $10,000 in 23 years," said Major H. W. Hines, of Boston, Mass., "in being doctored for epilepsy."

I employed the best physicians in New Orleans, St. Louis, N. York, Philadelphia, Boston, London and Paris, but all to no purpose. Nervin's Nervine has cured me entirely.—$1.50.

Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine.

The February number is even more than usually attractive with literary and artistic gems. The editor, T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., has an exceedingly interesting article, "Wonders of the Century," Rev. E. Barriss, M. A., contributes an admirable one, "Methodism in Canada," with nineteen portraits and other illustrations. Capt. and Mrs. Blue Grotto, Ziegler, the Swiss Farmer, Th. Phillips, Manor Hall at York, George Frederick Handel, Samson Agonistes, Liturgic and Liturgic Worship, etc., etc., are among the other prominent articles. The two serials, How it All Came Round and Wrong from the First, are continued, and there are short stories, sketches, essays and poems, by Elizabeth C. Winter, Eliza Cook, Louise E. Brown, Ellen M. Fogg, and other favorite writers. The Home Pulpit has a sermon by Dr. Talmage, A Tight Grip, and with a most varied, edifying and entertaining miscellany, the present number may challenge comparison with the best of its contemporaries. The price is 25 cents a number, $2.50 a year, post paid. Address Mrs. Frank Leslie, publisher, 53, 55, and 57 Park Place, N. Y.

Don't Procrastinate.

If you have signs of pulmonary trouble, act promptly. "A stitch in time saves nine." Compound Oxygen will certainly arrest the progress of Consumption if used in the early stages of that disease. It has already done so in a large number of cases some of them of the most hopeless character. In proof of this the most direct and positive evidence will be furnished by Dr. Starkey & Pallen 1109 Girard Street, Philadelphia. If you would like to submit your case and get an opinion of your condition, write to them and state all your symptoms clearly. It will cost you nothing, as they do not charge for consultations. Their reply and the documentary evidence which they will furnish as to what has been done by their new and wonderful Treatment, and also as to their professional standing, will put you in a position to judge for yourself whether to use their Treatment or not.

Wedding Bells.

BERRY-TAYLOR.

At the residence of the bride mother, January 28, 1884, at 11 o'clock A. M., W. J. Berry, Jr., and Miss Sallie M. Taylor were married in the presence of a large number of relatives.

Charles Cooper and Miss Annie Maddox, attendants, Rev. Dr. Bennett officiating.

After the ceremony, an elegant dinner was served in the spacious dining-hall. After this the bride left for Louisville, returning on Friday, the 4th. They were given a reception at the residence of the groom's father, Dr. W. J. Berry.

They were welcomed home by the kind parents, relatives and a host of friends.

An elegant dinner was served at 3 o'clock, P. M., and everything that could be had to eat was heartily served. Many were the well wishes extended to the youthful couple who have launched their barge together upon the ocean sea of life.

The bride is one of the interesting young ladies of the neighborhood—loved and respected by all—and Willie has acted wisely in his choice of a companion for life.

May they always be as happy as on their wedding day, and no cloud of sorrow or cast a shadow over their lives.

Present Tariff Issue.

The pending issue before the country on the tariff is a plain one, which admits of no equivocal or evasive. The present revenue tariff is subject to grave objections, as follows, to-wit:

1. It is a protective tariff, that is, a tariff which makes protection its own object, and revenue a simple incident.

2. On that account it is not limited in amount to the actual or necessary wants or expenses of the Government.

3. It is not adjusted with a view to equality in the public burdens, but maintains and creates monstrous monopolies, and gives unjust advantages to a few over the many.

4. Withholds protection either totally or partially, from agricultural products needing temporary aid and encouragement, while it enforces protection upon bloated monopolies not needing such aid. It repeated the ten per cent, ad valorem duty on wool, and gave but partial protection to the articles of wool, flax, and raw silk cocoons, while manufactured fabrics of the same articles were highly protected. Any one who will take the pains to look over the articles of import made dutiable, and those free of duty or, but partially protected by this tariff, must be at once that the duties are not adjusted with any fair view to either equality in the public burdens, or to protecting articles requiring aid and encouragement. For instance: Wool, raw silk, hemp, and flax and other articles, which, if properly aided and encouraged, would, in a few years, with the vast capabilities and resources of our country for their production, become able not only to compete in our markets with the imported articles, but through enlarged production even bring down the prices of those of foreign production, are by this tariff so slightly protected as not to be effectively aided. And yet proper incidental protection to such articles would not produce monopolies, but foster and encourage home productive industry and labor in a way calculated to enlarge the resources, prosperity and independence of our own country. But this measure has been framed with a view to cheapness of the raw material for the benefit of the manufacturing interests. Finally, it is clear that the present tariff is not fair, just, and equal to all the various branches of the industrial pursuits, so that reform therein is needed and required for the best interests of the people.

The present issue is, therefore, fairly and actually made on this demand for reform in the tariff. The Republican party has the responsibility and the onus of maintaining the present unfair, unjust, and unequal protective tariff against the reform which is demanded. The Democracy cannot accomplish this reform until it comes fully into power by the election of a President and a majority in both branches of Congress. When this shall occur, the Democracy will be held to the responsibility for this reform so much needed by the people. But as the issue now stands the Republican party must stand or fall on the merits or demerits of the present tariff. It is a departure from the pending issue to discuss what the Democratic party may be able to accomplish when it gets into power. That is in futuro. When that desirable event shall occur, then but not before, can the Democratic party be held to accountability.—American Register.

THE NEW YORK SUN, NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of the Sun have gone out of our establishment during the past twelve months.

We have been so successful in our efforts to reach the people of the United States, that we have been able to send out a copy of the Sun to every household in the country.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers.

The Sun is, and will continue to be, a paper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which sets at naught the power of the moneyed class, and which is a constant reminder to the people of their rights and duties.

It is a paper which is a constant reminder to the people of their rights and duties, and which is a constant reminder to the people of their rights and duties.
